

Runners in the 100 km next to the Tarawera River

Wright Satellite Connections (WSC) is proud to have provided the International Tarawera Ultramarathon with satellite communication & safety equipment.

Morgan travelled to New Zealand's supreme hunting destination, Milford Sound in April 2010 as part of a small and lucky few to receive 2010 Roar hunting permits. As well as coordinating support movements, Morgan reported back using the supplied Iridium 9555 satellite handset.

Morgan and five other hunters had unsuccessfully applied every year in the last 6 years to attend the Milford Roar. "It's like winning the lottery, this is a hunters paradise, a real unique opportunity" he comments. In April 2010 their lucky ticket was drawn.

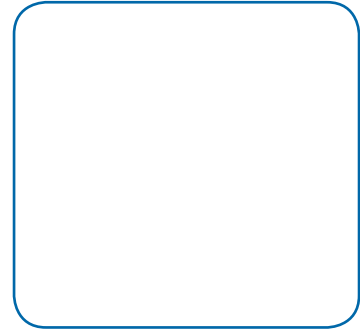

The team was issued with a hunting permit and designated a zone within the Milford Sound. "The terrain is tough, everything is larger down here, including the animals."

WSC Case Study

Tarawera Ultramarathon

Working as both a team but also as part of a wider hunting expedition, Morgan used the Iridium 9555 for coordination of activities and supplies, weather updates, and other communications which were sent as either SMS or text messages, or calls themselves.

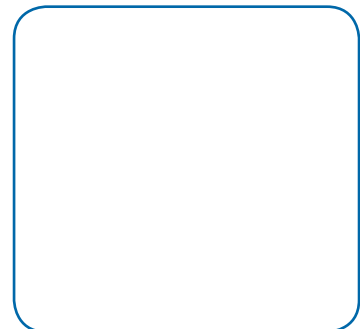

The handset was also used to send back blog updates and emails, as well as light Internet browsing. Morgan commented, "The Iridium 9555 worked brilliantly for sending back blog updates and emails to friends and family. Fantastic stuff."

On his Facebook website he comments, "The Iridium 9555 satellite phone can be used all over the world and was an excellent tool in the hunting mission. The Iridium network allows people at home to text an Iridium phone from WSC's website for free. This is a great service so that people can ask questions, or simply send encouragement."

To find out more about hiring the 9555 Iridium satellite handset please visit www.satconnections.co.nz

Wright Satellite Connections
23 Fitzherbert St, Petone
PO BOX 38-265
Wellington Mail Centre 5045

t: +64 (4) 568 0535
f: +64 (4) 568 8361

e: info@satconnections.co.nz